We must abandon all attempts at covering up personal and political dishonesty by party en-dorsements. For ourselves, we regard it as an in suit to be asked to sustain a man for a high office detail,—some were concurred to be asked to sustain a man for a high office because he is charged with things that ought to damn him socially and politically. If a man has sold his vote in the Leislature; if he has behad a hand in corrupting others; if he has between yay pure and unspotted, let him not intrude his name upon that Convention. There are men enough in the District, whose histories are fair, and who are, intellectually, legally, and politically eligible to office. If we elect a man at all, it will be one of these.

Direct Trade from the Upper Lakes to

From the Mark Lane Express, June 21.

Many will remember the log of the "Dean Richmond," which arrived direct in Liverpool, from Chicago in 1866, with a cargo of wheat, bringing it upwards of 1,600 miles before reaching Quebec. This year the three-mested schooners "Black Hawk," Chieftsio," "Col. Cook," "L. H. Harman," and "E. S. Adams" have sailed from the Upper Lakes, for Liverpool to be followed by the D. C. Pierce, C. J. Karsaw, and other ships, with cargoes of hour, wheat, black walnut, and staver. This primites to be a very large trade, opening the produce of the rich prairies of the West, to England, without transhipment. We would call the attention of the Corn trade to the low prices, at Chicago of the corn trade to the low prices, at Chicago and other Lake ports, compared with those of the Black Sea. In this sudden affiction we have neither time nor will to comment upon the lose we have custained. Mr. Gilbert leaves a wife and two children to whom his sudden death will be the heaviest affiction which God could send them. In his relations to this paper, for several years past, Mr. Gilbert has been invaluable. His industry and accuracy were proverbial, but we can only mingle our grief with that of those who are more terribly bereaved.—Euffalo Cammercial, July 9.

THE CROPS IN ENGLAND. - The English country papers uniformly speak well of the appear ance of the crops as regards nearly every staps production. Last year the harvest was considerably above an average, and there is an equally good prospect the present season. There is gen-srally a succession of two or three pears in that country wherein the season is the try wherein the crops are above or below an average, and judging from the past, we are now in the series of favorable years.

The News of Sunday, in thiswer to our query when "the Administration and its party in Congress abandoned the Lecompton issue"-as the News now insists that they have done-replies that it was in the adoption and approval of the English Swindle. This bill, says the News, submite English Swindle. This bill, says the News, submitted the Lecompton Constitution to the auffrages of the people of Kansas. The people of Kansas, under this bill, will reject that Constitution—the last session; and the persistent efforts, pro-clined to think that Barley will not be as plenty this session as it was last. Winter Wheat is also the session as it was last. Winter Wheat is also very much damaged by rust, and there is not but weather for the past week, with eccasional will, and in spite of their earnest and almost unanimous protest; and who remember the ready unanimous protest; and who remember the ready compliance of the Administration Press all over the country (the Milwaukee News inclusive) in cool effrontery of this proposition.

The Administration never gave up Lecompton till twice defeated thereon in the House of Representatives, and then resorted to a dodge, to carry by indirection, what it could not do directly. This dodge was the "English Swindle," already inlamous in the history of American Legislation. The passage of this bill has heretofore been claimed as an Administration triumph; but now it is represented as a defeat. The Administration, says the News, has "abandoned" the Lecompton is us, and gives up heat on the English bill. It does not even wait for the Pecple of Kansas to vote upon it, but like Captain Scorr's sagacious coon, "comes down" before they fire. We admire their discretion. Assuredly, the People of Kansas will kill both the original Lecompton and the English variation so dead in August next, that the authors and abouters of these twin villainies will shrink in dismay before the sweeping blast of popular indignation. No wonder then, that the Administration wind overtakes them, and as abject in defeat, as of lightning : they were inscient in victory, now seck to make

The New York Times publishes the following table of the annual expenditures of the General Government during each of the last ten years, including the Administrations of TAYLOR, FILL-MORE, PREECE and BUCHANAN;

Year. President. 1849-General Taylor, 1350-Fillmore, 1351-Fillmore, 40.504.422 12 1852—Fillmore 1858—Plerce, 1854—Pierce, 1855—Pierce, 1856-Pierce Admitting that, as a general rule, in a grow-he Bucuanan Administration, Democratic management has succeeded in swelling these expenditures to Eighty-Osm Millions. Thus, in just seven years, our Democratic Economists have more than doubled the expenses of the General Government-the increase, in that period, I sing

But this is not all that the present Administration has done. Starting with a handsome surplus of eighteen millions on hard, they have emptied the Treasury, and already added thirty millions to the National Debt; and there is every prospect that upon their retirement from office, oy universal consent, in 1861, they will leave the country a legacy of ONE HUNDRED MILLIONS Of Debt. This is Democratic "Reform and Retrenchment" with a vengeance!

EMANCIPATION SENTIMENT IN MISSOURI,-We find in St. Louis papers letters from several peranus nominated for the Legislature o : Missour by "Free Democratic Conventions," in which ground is taken distinctly and strongly in favor of emancipation. As a specimen, we give the following passage from one written by the Hou. HENRY T. Blow, of St. Louis, who was nominated for the State Senate. Mr. B. says:

"Born and raised in a Slave State, and sur-lounded with those influences through life, I know the worthlessness of the institution itself, and have for many years, never failed to caution
my best friends against relying upon such a rotten basis as Slave labor, either for pocuciary gain or domestic comfort. While the thought has never entered my mind for a moment, that the advocates of so magnificent a policy for the good of the white race should contemplate the slightest act of injustice to that class of our citizees who own a large pecualary interest in the black race, I have held that we should go to work among ourselves, gaining the cooperation even of the staucholders, to rid the State of this cron or the state holders, to rid the State of this incubus upon her prosperity and that of her citizens."

Mr. BLAIR, the Candidate of the "Free Democcacy"-or, as the Admisistration papers there etyle them, the "Black Republicans"-in the St Louis Congressional District, is fighting this battle with equal energy and ardor. He and his two competitors (K. N. and "National Democratic" mee daily on the stump in different parts of the District, and address large audiences. The St. Louis Democrat is confident of the triumph of Mr. BLAIR and the Right.

THE BANK AND ANTIDOTE .- The News of Sunday publishes a new variety of the Madison Patriot's palpable and absurd fiction about Gov RANDALL's purchasing the support of that inmaculate sheet, and then, by way of correction, adds that "Pump" was paid $2,600 by other par ties for his services in the campaign of 1857 .-This, if true, says the News, "exhonerates Ran. DALL." We should think it did-especially as nothing has yet appeared to implicate Gov. RANDALL, save the apochryphal statements of the Madison Patriot.

The State Printing.—We understand that Mr. Wakeley has given the Commissioners notice of his readiness to give the requisite bonds as State Printer, and that if the contract is not awarded him, be will take legal measures to secure his rights.—Madison Patriot.

We doubt whether the Commissioners will re-daty in the premises.

Injury to the Crops. The warm and damp weather of the last week bas done serious injury to the crops in different parts of our State. The following from the Janesville Gazette of yesterday, is a sample of the complaints that reach us: RUST IN THE WINTER WHEAT .- On Saturday reports of rest in the winter wheat were qui prevalent, from different parts of the county. Some fields are reported as a total loss, while others are badly damaged. We are satisfied that there is little winter wheat in this region which is not injured to some extent. Spring wheat still gives promise of a good crop. Burley gentleman who rode out, Friday, as lar as Water-load, Racine county, 25 miles, informs us that almost every field of winter wheat he passed was more or less rusted. Happily the weather changed on Saturday, and came off quite cool This may check the mischief which threatened to prove extensive.

A British packet arrived at New York from the cage, and the next instant, with its freight of precious pressing down the Ohio with 1500 men, and that orders had been sent to the Western Militis and the next instant, with its freight of precious pressing down the Ohio with 1500 men, and that orders had been sent to the Western Militis and the next instant, which its freight of precious pressing down the Ohio with 1500 men, and that dashed down the shalt, a perpendicular depth of the graph lost with the cage, who could not safe the augment, who could not safe the augment, who could not safe the augment, who could not safe the cage, to hoist a little. The Janesville Gazette of Saturday says: Within the last two or three days we have heard very discouraging news concerning the new Wheat crop; some farmers tell us that there will Therefore, argues the News, Buchanak Co., have backed down on the Lecompton issue; it is an "effecte issue," and the people of Kansas are indebted to Buchanak Co. for the opportunity to kill the monster!

Those who recall to mind the proceedings of this Wheat, Saturday, taken from a field a few miles south of this city, which was badly blighted with a considerable complaint about Burley. We learned on Saturday from a fell while source, that the Bailey crop on Rock river would be more nothing, as it had been much sfected by rust, and that there would be many fields that would not be baryeated. About fifteen years since, in a atorm of two hours duration, lightning struck in thirty different pisces in this city and submbs. It is probable that upward of thirty persons are annually killed by lightning in the United States, and it may be truly said that in most cases these deaths are the result of rashness or carelessness on the part of the victims. A great many persons are killed by taking refuge from the rain under the trees in the open fields. Their presence renders the tree more liable to be struck, because the human body is a better conductor than the tree and by a character much ductor than the tree, and it is, therefore, much 48,644,202 82

It is proper to add that the lightning rod was insulated by glass fastenings, and that there is no casson to doubt the efficacy of lightning rods when they are constructed on proper scientific principles. Protecting buildings from lightning, however, is something like prescriping for a sick person—the suggest of the prebing times, however, is something like prescribing for a sick person—the success of the prescription, in either case, depending under provid nee, on the degree of knowledge, skill and experience possessed by the physician.

MARY KINGSFORD The Story of & Plainund Braoch.

The Story of a Planend Brooch.

BY A LONDON DETECTIVE.

It was toward the Ciristmas holidays that I was hurriedly despatched on official business from London to Liverpool, but finding my visit functions, I immediately set out on my return to London Winter had come upon us unusually early; the weather was bitterly cold; and a piercing who caused the snow which had been falling heavily for several hours, to gyrate in fierce, blinding eddies, and heaped it up here and there into large and dengerous drifts. The obstruction offered by the rapidly congcaling snow greatly delayed our progress between Liverpool and Birmingham, and at a few miles only distant from the latter city, the leading engine ran off the line. Fortunately, the rate at which we were traveling was a very slow one, and no scrident of moment occurred—Having no luggage to care for, I walked on to Birmingham, where I found the parliamentary train just on the point of starting, and with some hesistation, on account of the severity of the weather, I took my seat in one of the then very much exposed and uncomfortable carriages.—We traveled steadily and safely, though slowly along, and reached Rugby station in the alteration, and where we were to temain, the guard told us, till a fast down train has passed. All of us, till a fast down train has passed. All of us, till a fast down train has passed.

We traveled steadily and salely, though slowly along along, and reached Rugby station in the afteralong, where we were to remain, the guard told on the station, where he were to the large room at this station, where blazing fires and other appliances soon thawed the half trozen bodies, and loosened the tongues of the numerous and mottley passengers. After recovering the use of my benumbed limbs and faculties, I had leisure to look around and survey the miscellanceus as semblage about me.

Two persons had traveled in the same comTwo persons had traveled in the same comTwo persons had traveled in the same com-

Two persons had traveled in the same compartment with me from Birminghom, whose exterior, as disclosed by the dim light of the tail way carriage, created some surprise that such a finely-attived, fashionable gentleman should stoop to journey by the plebian penny-s-mile train. I could now observe them in a clearer light, and surprise at their condesconsion vanished at once.

To an eye less experienced than mine in the artifices and expedients familiar to a certain at the surprise about the first person, I perceived, began to tell upon ortifices and expedients familiar to a certain class of "swells," they might perneps have passed moster for what they assumed to be, especially amidst the varied crowd of a Parliamentany amost the varied crowd of a rannament-ary; but their copper finery could not for a mo-ment impose upon me. The watch-chains were, I saw, mossic; the watches, so frequently dis-played gilt; eye-glasses the rame, the coats, for collered and cufled, were ill-fitting and eccond hand; ditto of the variebed boots and renova ted velvet waistcoats; wille the luxuriant mous-laches and whiskers and flowing wigs, were unlaches and whiskers and flowing wigs, were unmistakebly mere piccis d'eccasion—assumed and

I watched them narrowly, the more at from their making themselves oetectationally attentive to a young woman—girl tather she ascemed—of a remarkably graceful figure, but whose face. I had not yet obtained a glimpse of. They made beisterous way for her to the fire, and were profitse and noisy in their offers of refreshments—all of which I observed were peremptorilly declined.

She was diessed in deep, unexpensive mourning, and from her timid gestures and averted head whonever either of the fellows addressed her, was, it evident, terrified as well as annoyed by their rude and insolout notice. I quietly drew near to the side of the fire-place at which she stood, and with some difficulty obtained a sight of her features. I was struck with extreme surprise—not so much with her signal beauty, as an instantaneous conviction that she was known to me, or at least that I had seen her frequently before, but where and when I could not call to mind. Again I looked and my first impression was confirmed. At this moment the elder of the two men I have partially described placed his hand with a rude leaniliarity upon the girl's shoulder, profiering at the same time a glass of hot brandy and water for her accept ance. She turned sharply and indignantly away from the fellow; and looking around as if for glass of hot brandy and water for her accept ance. She turned sharply and indignantly away from the fellow; and looking around as if for protection caught my engerly fixed gaze.

"Mr. Water!" she impressively ejaculated.—
"Oh, I am so glad!"
"Yes," I answered, "that is certainly my name, but I scarcely remember——. Stand back, fellow" I augrily continued, as her comentor, emboldened by the spirits he had drank, pressed with a seering grin upon his face towards her, of the theatre, we found the weather had change.

low!" I augnity continued, as her tormentor, emboldened by the spirits he had drank, pressed with a jeering grin upon his face towards her, still tendering the brandy and water.

"Stand back?" he replied by a curse and a threat.

The next moment his flowing wig was whirling across the room, and he standing with his bullet head bare but for a few locks of iron-grayin an attitude of speechless rage and confusion, increased by the peaks of laughter which greeted his ladicroca, unwigged aspect. He quickly put himself in a fighting attitude and backed by this companion, challenged me to battle. This was quite out of the question; and I was somewhat at a loss how to proceed, when the bell announcing the instant departure of the train rang out, my furious antagonist gathered up and adjuated his wig, and we all sallied forth to take our plantage.

The inciement weather had cleared the streets and thoroughfares in a surprisingly short time; so that excepting myself, no foct passenger was quite out of the question; and I was somewhat at a loss how to proceed, when the bell announcing in the process of the train rang out, my furious antagonist gathered up and adjuated his wig, and we all sallied forth to take our plantage.

The inciement weather had cleared the streets and thoroughfares in a surprisingly short time; so that excepting myself, no foct passenger was visible on the bridge till I had about half crossed it, when a female figure, closely muffled up about the head and sobbing bitterly, passed rapidly by on the opposite side. I turned and gazad after time and after a moments' hesitation, I determined to follow at a distance, and as unobserved has all could.

On the woman aped, without pause or hesitation, till she rearached Astley's, where I observed his an attitude at the celebration of the theatre, we found the weather had cleared the streets and children consequently proceeded home in a cab with me; and after a saliently and children consequently proceeded home in a cab with me; and children consequently procee ces—the young woman holding fast by my arms and in a low, rervois voice, begging me not to leave her. I watched the two follows take their seats, and then led her to the hindmost carriage, which we had to ourselves as far as the next station.

"Are Mrs. Waters and Emily quite well?" said the young woman coloring and lowering her eyes beneath my carnest gaze, which she seemed for a moment to misinterpret.

"Quite, entirely so," I almost stammered.—"You know us, then?"

"Surely I do," she replied, reassured by my manner. "But you, it seems," she presently added with a winning smile "have quite forgotten little Mary Kingsford."

"Mary Kingsford." I exclaimed, almost with a shout. "Why, so it is! But what a transformation a low years have effected."

"Do you blink so? Not pretty Mary Kingsford now, then, I suppose?" she added with a light pleasant laugh.

"You know what I mean, you vain puss you!" I rejoined quite gleeluliy, for I was overjoyed at meeting with the gentle, well-remembered playmate of my eldest girl. We were old familiar friends—almost lather and daughter—in an in the wonten and chert with a sund the slipper loss of the pavement, down we have free ted."

The lather was a gadener to Sir Pyott Delzell, and her mother eked out his wages to a respectable maintenance by keeping a cheap children's school. The change which a few years had wrought in the beautiful child was quite sufficient to account for my imperiest recognition of her; but the instant her name was mentioned, I at once recognized the rare comliness which had charmed we in her childhood. It is in fact the best Brandy known. This statement is fully corroborated by the certificates of one most distinguished analytical cherists.

The want of pure brandy has long been felt in this country, and the introduction of an article of such quality as to superseds the sale and use of those vile combounds hitherto sold under the name of Brandy, can only be regarded a great public good. COMMERCIAL & FINANCIAL OFFICE OF THE DAILY SENTINEL,

Monday Evening, July 13, 1893.

MARKY MITTERA.—The Banks are discounting good paper pratty liberally at the usual rates, 10 per cent. We have no change to note in orders of Exchange, or rates. Note brokers are "doing" well secured paper at 1/2 to 21/2 per cent per month. Exchange on the East continue. plenty and is selling at 1 per cent, premium. Gold is selling at the same rate.

we notice that the state. The house are opening in various parts of the State. The Wanpaca Ecclesor announces that Mesers A.J. DOFFE of lots, Mr. Vas firsk of Madison, and A. H. Vas Wis, of Sheboyan, are about to open a Bank in Wanpaca, to o establish a Bank of Discount and Deposit, in that vil-age, with fifty thousand dollars capital. Both of the above gentlemen are well-known throughout the State.

The Hard I also announces the establishment of the Bank

The market was a triffe more active to-day than at the close of the week, and prices barely a shade lower.
Receipts are fair, and the poor wheat which glutted the market last week is working oaby degrees. We look for s brisker market and more settled prices the present wee than for either of the past two. The telegraph this even-ing says that the N. Y. wheat market is heavy, and that prices are still in favor of the buyer. Flour in that ma hel it will be seen has been rather on the mend lately chie wheat has been retrograting. We attribute this more particularly to the fact that the quality of wheat on the N. Y. market at present, is mostly of inferior quality, or 'monound' as they call it, than any other cause.

or tunsound" as they call it, than any other cause.

The sales of wheat in our market to-day fost up considerably more than the average of last west. Among the sales to-day was one which is decidedly ahoud of the market. It was 107 but of Dane County premium w.c. wheat of Mr. C. Lary of Stoughton, sold by Messrs. Bearr & Plowers, at minety fire cents per bushed. THE WOOL TRADE.

The indinations are far more favorable than we smitch pated two morths ago, at which time the views of manufacturers were much lower than at the present time. During the fact two weeks a large an unit of low and medium wools have changed hands in this State, prices starting at 2t to 20c, and by the competition of buyers rapidly atvancing to 13 and 40c. The average price that if the country at this time is about 35c, which, towers, does not command the bat chys. We have heard of a few feelings being hought through the country at 42, 13 and 40c.

Our advices from Michigan are very rehabit, given the similar state of the market there, price starting at 27 to 30c, and advancing quickly to 38 and 40c. THE WOOL TRADE.
